a comparative and interdisciplinary study of representations of national history in japan france and the unites stated from 1870 1900

this new approach to the social history of afrikaner nationalism looks into the diverse causes for the rise of a political movement which was to shape south african history profoundly during the 20th century in the 1930s afrikaner nationalism transformed itself from a populist into a cultural nationalism becoming politically radicalised at the same time the nationalist symbol of the oxwagon was used not only by the national party but also by the extra and antiparliamentarian mass movement ossewabrandwag which was founded in 1939 drawing on a broad range of archival resources the social history of this extremist organisation is analysed showing local and regional differences the ossewabrandwag as a nationalist movement counted a considerable part of the afrikaans white population among its members therefore the ossewabrandwag can be understood appropriately only in the context of radical afrikaner nationalism given that the potential for political radicalisation in the white south african population was considerable ideological influences from overseas played merely an additional role the book looks into the reasons for the mass participation in the ossewabrandwag in addition it analyses the organisation s fight with the national party and its illegal and treasonable activities in this context the book discusses which ideological influences on the apartheid policy can be identified as coming from organised right wing extremism with aggravating global realignments the dynamics and contradictions of a world risk society are looming ahead in the unfolding third millennium while globalization is gaining further steam to this bears witness a potpourri of often frightening geopolitical social cultural economic demographic ecological and other changes and challenges that gives substantial cause for concern about getting lost in a trans whatever sea of turmoil uncertainty and indeterminateness the resultant current backlash or rather renewed interest in the nation as a collective identity establishing category is an effort to gain some anchorage in ever more disintegrating times and proves especially those theoreticians wrong for whom the whole concept of the nation has worn off since long in 16 resourceful essays internationally distinguished canadian and european experts from a variety of fields take a fresh look at these developments by focussing on one of the most fascinating multicultural and multifaceted nation state s in the world canada in the third millennium the topics they discuss include among others canada s difficult dissociation from europe and the usa the reframing and reclaiming of the canadian story the role of nations within the nation the efforts to transcend the nation pending geopolitical and geo ecological crises glocal issues and new wars collectively the entries prove that canada is a very progressive nation and opens up new perspectives for other collectives currently reassessing their national identities in a global environment thus the book reaches well beyond the study of canada and will be valuable to academics professionals teachers and students of various disciplines coping with the issue at stake as well as the general reader fundamental world changes that simultaneously undermine a nation state s charisma and promote the rise of a supra national system have wide ranging effects upon national states within a modern global society my dissertation empirically examines the effects of social and cultural globalization on systems of mass schooling which are central institutions in every country globally primary and secondary education initially emerged as the premier tool for nation states to create a unified national citizenry loyal to their country and socialized into a common cultural tradition i examine the extent to which this original nationalizing purpose of schooling is challenged by the increased emphases on universal human rights and diversity in civic education the analyses consist of two sections hierarchical linear models are used to analyze a unique primary data source of 521 social science textbooks from 74 countries during the period 1970 2008 these findings show a worldwide increase in emphasis on human rights and increases in discussions of diversity in well established liberal democracies cross national quantitative analyses are complemented by a qualitative case study of social science curricula in british columbia bc which examines nation building within a context of strong emphasis on diversity and human rights the bc study utilizes currently approved high school citizenship education textbooks as well as older textbooks dating back to 1871 it also draws on a selection of historical documents including ministry of education reports curricular frameworks and high school exit exams process wise i find the incorporation of human rights and diversity reflects macro level changes in national and global society content wise i find four main approaches to reconciling ideas of human rights and diversity with national identity 1 framing human rights and multiculturalism as part of national identity 2 using pedagogical approaches that promote multiple perspectives and individual agency 3 celebrating social and scientific figures and accomplishments as the source of national pride and 4 drawing on exogenous sources to affirm state legitimacy this study is one of the first to theorize that civic education worldwide is moving away from a national focus and to provide empirical evidence of this trend a key implication is that educational systems are being repurposed from their original goal of constructing a unitary national citizenry to a new view emphasizing human diversity and equality in a globally interconnected world further students are increasingly taught that the global civil society and non state actors are important and legitimate agents of social change the nineteenth century novel is generally assumed to be concerned with private lives and social relations but russian fiction obsessively focused on scenarios of state power was an exception to the rule in sovereign fictions ilya kliger shows that this encounter between realist fiction and political authority gave russian novels a form unlike their counterparts in the west kliger explores russian realism s distinctive construals of sociality through a broad range of texts from the 1830s to the 1870s including works by dostoevsky gogol and pushkin and several lesser known but influential books of the period including mikhail lermontov s a hero of our time 1840 ivan goncharov s the same old story 1847 ivan turgenev s rudin 1856 aleksei pisemsky s one thousand souls 1858 and vasily sleptsov s hard times 1865 kliger s book offers an important intervention in socially inflected theories of the novel and in current thinking on representations of power and historical poetics
